

7 Best Tips to Prepare an Effective Study Timetable

7 Best Tips to Prepare an Effective Study Timetable

Give yourself enough time to do a study

Make your study possible until last minute. Some students seem to go up to study at the last and widely get loss so set up a timetable in the proper manner write down the date of examination in the proper manner and the time you are getting for every subject. Organise it in a good manner and go for it if you really want to make your exam more successful than others and for that, you have to balance your time and feel your schedule comfortable.

Also Read - Copy link How to prepare good Study Notes \(Incredible Tips \)

Organise your Study Space

For your benefit maintain good space and area for better concentration and you have enough time to read your textbooks and notes to get out with all the destruction your concern. It is to be focused towards your target because we can see that some people are really very concerned about their work and some get destruct and not getting a good result at the last because of good maintenance.

Also Read - 5 Habits That Can Bring Students Success

Take help from charts and diagrams

Before starting your timetable you have to challenge yourself that what you know about that topic write it down and then start studying your topics it may help you a lot.

Apart from that you may also go using charts and diagram and use them for your preparation. Visual aids may help you a lot. You may Create hierarchical data and use it for your preparation conditions to your whole chapter into a hierarchy and use the data to learn in a successful manner It may help you a lot.

Also Read - How to Become Topper in School

Used previous year question papers

It is one of the most effective ways to learn and go in a right direction with the help of previous year question paper. You are able to measure the time period you want in an examination. You are able to know the format of the questions. You are able to go for a good practice you will get a rich amount of content from your previous year question paper. So don't forget about previous year question papers and previous year data that you have to collect from your internet source.

Also Read - 10 useful tips to avoid Nervous Breakdown during Exams

Explain to others

You know about any topic you may communicate with others and got a chance to make it revised as well as your final preparation for that topic because if you're Unable to communicate in front of a crowd about the topic then you can revise it.

Regular Breaks

As we know that we are always trying to consuming a time in a proper way but it is too much important to get regular breaks in between the studies. So as to get proper attention towards your work if you are working with a free mind you are able to get concentrate more and more towards your studies. Your break should not be very long it is about 10 to 15 minutes because if you take a long break it makes you tired and makes you sleepy and you are unable to get up and do your work so it is too much in a Sincere way.

Drink plenty of Water

Do not get your body dehydrated because all we know that water is a medium of reaction in our body. It is too much important to get made your body hydrated. It's really a very big task to be concentrate. It helps you a lot.

Also Read - FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS \(FAQ'S\) ON JEE \(Main\) - 2019